

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

MEMBRANE 11.

Nov. 23. Westminster. To the sheriff of York. Order to cause the king's peace to be proclaimed and observed in his bailiwick, inhibiting all and singular, under pain of disinheritance, of life and of limbs, from infringing the king's peace, as the government of the realm has come to the king by the death of king Henry his father by hereditary succession and by the will of the proceres of the realm and by their fealty done to the king, wherefore the magnates have caused the king's peace to be proclaimed in the king's name, who is hereafter the debtor to all and singular of the realm in the exhibition of justice and in the preservation of the peace. The king is and will be prepared to exhibit justice, by the Lord's will, to all and singular in all rights and things touching them against all persons whatsoever, great and small. Witnesses: W. archbishop of York, E. earl of Cornwall, and G. earl of Gloucester. [Fœdera; Prynne, Records, iii. 117.]

The like to all the sheriffs of England. [Ibid.]

Nov. 29. The New Temple, London. To John de Reygate, escheator beyond Trent. Whereas the late king ordered John to make an extent of the lands whereof Henry de Percy, tenant in chief of the said king, was seised in his demesne as of fee at his death, with the exception of the manors of Pettesworth and Toppeclyve, whereof Eleanor, late the wife of Henry, was enfeoffed, and to cause dower of Henry's other lands to be assigned to Eleanor, and the escheator, asserting that he could not attend to the making of the extent aforesaid, deferred assigning the dower, whereupon the late king again ordered him to cause the tenements to be extended in the presence of John de Oketon, on behalf of Queen Eleanor, to whom the late king granted the custody of the lands of the said Henry, John de Oketon being sent to those parts for this reason, and to cause dower to be assigned to the said Eleanor de Percy: the king, wishing to put the said order into execution, orders the escheator to cause the lands to be extended and to cause dower to be assigned to Eleanor, so that the dower may be assigned to her by the escheator's hands in the king's name without delay. Given by the hand of Walter de Merton, the chancellor. By C.

Nov. 29. The New Temple. To L[lewelyn] son of Griffin, prince of Wales. Order to come to the ford of Montgomery in person, so that he be there in the octaves of St. Hilary next, to make oath of fealty to the king before the king's envoys whom the king shall send there specially to receive the fealty, as they shall cause him to know on the king's behalf, as the government of the realm has come to the king by his father's death, and he has caused his peace to be proclaimed, and the prelates, earls, barons, and other proceres of the realm have promptly and without omission made oath of fealty and have done the other things that they could do or make to the king in his absence by reason of his crown and royal dignity, and L[lewelyn] is bound to do the like, as he knows. Witnesses: W. archbishop of York, and E. earl of Cornwall. [Fœdera.]

Dec. 1. The New Temple. To Master Richard de Clifford, escheator this side Trent. Order to deliver to Alyna de Baton[ia] the manor of Redenhale, and to restore to her the issues thereof, as it appears to the king that she was enfeoffed thereof by him jointly with Nicholas de Yattingedene, her late husband. Given by the hand of W. de Merton, the chancellor.

Dec. 2. The New Temple. To John de Reygate, escheator beyond Trent. Order to deliver to Queen E[leanor], the king's mother, or to her envoy, the custody of the lands that belonged to Henry de Percy, saving to Eleanor, late the wife of Henry, her dower, which the escheator shall first assign to her as by the king's hand, as the king ordered the escheator at another time, the late king having assigned to the said queen the custody of the lands, to be held according to a form provided by him and his council. Given by the hand of W. de Merton, the chancellor.

Nov. 29. The New Temple. To the abbot of Hagheman. Order to go to the ford of Montgomery with the abbot of Dore, as the king has ordered L[lewelyn] son of Griffin to be there to make fealty before them as they shall enjoin him on the king's behalf. Given by the hand of W. de Merton, the chancellor.

The like, 'de verbo ad verbum,' to the abbot of Dore.

To all, etc. Grant to the aforesaid abbots of power to receive the fealty of Llewelyn (Leulini), prince of Wales, so that if both of them cannot be present, the one who shall be present shall have full power to receive Llewelyn's fealty.

Dec. 2. Westminster. To Llewelyn (Leulino) son of Griffin, prince of Wales. Whereas according to the form of peace concluded between the late king and Llewelyn, the latter is bound to the king in 3,000 marks, to be paid at Christmas next, as Llewelyn knows, and the king is bound to divers creditors in a great sum of money for the discharge of the expenses incurred by him in the service of God in the Holy Land, so that he greatly needs the aforesaid 3,000 marks; he therefore orders Llewelyn to consider the fact that the king has been, is, and will be ready to observe the said peace inviolably from the time of its conclusion, and to send the said sum to Chester at the said feast at the latest, there to be delivered for custody to the abbot of Chester or brother Alan, his monk, as the king has enjoined upon the abbot. This Llewelyn is to neglect in no wise as he loves the king and his honour, and as the king specially trusts him. [Fœdera.]

Given by the hand of Walter de Merton, the chancellor.

Order to cause Adam de Bolteby, son and heir of Nicholas de Bolteby, tenant in chief, to have seisin of the lands whereof his father was seised at his death in his demesne as of fee, as the king learns by inquisition taken by the escheator that Nicholas did not hold any lands of the king in chief except those that were of the inheritance of Philippa, formerly his wife, tenant in chief by barony, which the king has rendered to the said Adam, son and heir of Nicholas and Philippa.

To Master Richard de Clifford, escheator this side Trent. Order to restore to Lucy, late the wife of Herbert Peche, half a knight's fee in Freston and Fenne and the manor of Edelington, and to restore the issues thereof to her, as the king learns by inquisition taken by the escheator that Herbert held the half-fee and manor of the inheritance of Lucy, and by no other right.

Dec. 14. Westminster. To the barons of the exchequer. Order to audit the account of the executors of William de Glouc[estria] in accordance with the late king's order in their hands at the exchequer, as William received at divers times great sums of money from the late king's treasury by the hands of the treasurer and chamberlains of the exchequer and from the said king's wardrobe and from elsewhere in order to make divers jewels of the said king, and for the repair of his jewels, and to make a frontal (spontale) for the greater altar of the church of Westminster, and to make a silver image over (ultra) the tomb of Katherine, daughter of the said king, in that church, and for the making of the shrine of St. Edward, and for divers other works, for which William in his lifetime did not render account before them at the exchequer or elsewhere, wherefore the late king ordered them to audit William's account of the said works by Henry de Otinton, clerk, and the other executors of William's will, and they have deferred doing so by reason of the late king's death. Given by the hand of W. de Merton, the chancellor.

To John de Reygate, escheator beyond Trent. Order to cause Walter de Faukenberge and Agnes his wife, one of the sisters and heiresses of Peter de Brus, tenant in chief, to have seisin of the following lands, etc., upon their finding security for payment of their relief, as the king has taken Walter's fealty for the lands, etc., and has rendered them to them, to be held of him in chief by the service of a quarter of a knight's fee, which Peter owed to the king for the inheritance aforesaid, on condition that Walter come before the king on his arrival in England to do homage: the castle of Skelton, with the park this side the castle and with the profits of the boats of Cotum and Ridekere, with the demesnes of Skelton, the meadows, dales, and rents of the town of Skelton, both of freemen and of others, and with all mills and toll, and with the manor of Mersk with all appurtenances, and with Ridekere, and with Oplyom, and with the town of Stangho, and with the town of Grenrugg, and with the forest (forr') of Skelton, to wit with the enclosure (haya) and great park and with Asdale, and with the chace of Westwik with the forest as the highway extends between Stangho and Katereriding, and as the highway extends to Lardegate, and so by Skeytebek to Larthorn, and so to the boundary (divisam) of the forest (forr') of Daneby, and so by that boundary to Colemendale, and so that all the chaces within the boundaries, to wit Locwit, Wervelscho, Hardale, and Hale, and with the herbage of La Gren and of La Dinant, saving to Walter and Agnes and the townships common of pasture for their cattle and beasts, as Peter and the townships were wont to have, with all the town of Estbrun, except 4½ bovates of land and four tofts assigned to John de Bella Aqua and Laderona his wife, one of the sisters and heiresses of the said Peter, and with a moiety of the bailiwick

March 17. The New Temple, London. To Master Richard de Cliff[ord], escheator this side Trent, or to his sub-escheator in co. Hereford. Order to receive the castle of Kilpek from Alan de Plogenet, and to keep it safely in the king's name, provided that no earl, baron or knight shall enter it, whereby it might be occupied from the escheator's hands, as the king learns that Alan detains the castle, not allowing the escheator to enter therein, as is customary, after the death of Robert Waleraund, who died seised thereof, and on Thursday after St. Gregory Alan came to London and rendered the castle to the king, to remain in his hands to be kept by the escheator or other on the king's behalf, so that it may not come into the hands of another, whereby danger or the eloignment of Alan's right might happen to him. For the security of the custody and for the defence of the castle, the king wills that the escheator shall retain Alan's men there, so that they may remain therein and intend the custody of the castle with the escheator in the king's name, and not in Alan's. The escheator is to commit the foreign lands belonging to the castle to some faithful man, for whom he will answer, so that no destruction or deterioration of the woods or fishponds, or any thing belonging thereto, may be made until the king have caused right to be done to Alan thereupon.

the king for 50 marks specified below, unless he shall show there that not he but another ought to be charged with that sum, and to cause all his goods, which were taken into the king's hands for this cause, to be reserved in the meantime without diminution or damage, as it has been shown to the king, on behalf of the said Lumbard, that whereas Lumbard, a Jew of Bristol, was amerced before the late king's justices for the custody of the Jews in 50 marks for a trespass of the late king's exchange, and Lumbard the Jew of Oxford has not been challenged for this trespass or charged with the said money, but the sheriff exacts the 50 marks from him, and has taken all his goods into the king's hands, and detains him in Oxford prison. ——— To the sheriff of Cambridge. It has been shown to the king on behalf of William de Stowe and his co-executors of the will of Nicholas Prat that whereas Nicholas neither abjured the kingdom nor was outlawed or hanged for felony, and did not forfeit his chattels, the sheriff, because Nicholas, when he was sick unto death, suffering from madness, wounded himself with his knife, so that he afterwards died thereof, wherefore he ought not to lose (admittere) his chattels by the consideration of the king's court, and the chattels cannot or ought not to belcng to the king according to the law of the realm, distrains the executors to render the chattels to him, asserting that they ought to belong to the king as forfeited for the aforesaid reason; the king, because such things usually happen to madmen in their illnesses, and they have not undergone the judgment of the king's court or the court of another therefor, and these things ought not and are not wont to be reputed felony, orders the sheriff, if this be so and if it appear commonly by a jury (patriam), and there be no other suspicion thereof, to desist from the said distraint, and to deliver to the executors what is theirs in this respect, permitting them to execute the will without hindrance. [Ryley, Placita Parliamentaria, p. 434.]

Memorandum, that Alger son of Richard de Flete came before the chancellor in chancery, on Thursday after St. Nicholas, and laid claim to 20 acres of land in Flete, concerning which a fine was made in the king's court between William Brun of Flete and Margaret de Gedeneye.

Whereas the cathedral churches in England that are void (viduatis) ought to be provided for of right and are wont of custom to be provided for by canonical election to be made principally by the colleges, chapters, and persons to whom the right of election pertains, after they have sought and obtained the king's licence therefor, and after the election have been celebrated, the person elected has to be presented to the king, so that the king may propound against him anything reasonable that he may have to propound; it seems to the king and his council that prejudice would be done to him and to the church of Canterbury, whereof he is patron and defender, in this behalf, especially if the matter were drawn into an example in other churches of England, if the pope should assume to himself the power of providing for that church, these things being omitted in this case, when no wrong (peccatum) has been found either in the matter or form of the election, and none is expressed in his letters; wherefore in order that the Roman church shall not proceed to such provisions henceforth, and so that if it do proceed to them, no prejudice shall arise to the king thereby, so that he shall be bound to render the temporalities of any cathedral church thus provided, the king at present grants to you, the elect of Canterbury, the temporalities of Canterbury, by special favour, and I, Itherius Bochardi, the king's clerk, protest, in the king's name, that the grant of temporalities made in like case to Nicholas, bishop of Winchester, but with a protest, which is now repeated in your person, shall not be drawn into a custom or example in future times. This protest was made and read at Westminster in the chapel of St. Stephen, on Monday, the eve of St. Lucy, in the presence of Brother Robert de Kiluardeby, elect of Canterbury, there being also present and specially summoned for this purpose W. bishop of Exeter, Sir W. de Merton, the chancellor, Master John de Chishull, dean of St. Paul's, London, R. May 30. Westminster. To the same. Whereas the king learns by inquisition taken by Ralph de Hengham, in the presence of the archdeacon of Chichester, that from time out of mind, as often as the men of the abbey of Fécamp were amerced in the hundred of Palling' for their defaults or for wrong done to the lord of Arundel, or to his men, or for assizes not observed, or for any other cause, those who were put in mercy were wont to find security (vadiare) for their amercement to the bailiffs of the lord of Arundel, and the amercement was wont to be taxed afterwards before the bailiff of Arundel, in the presence of the bailiffs of the abbot of Fécamp, by lawful men of the hundred, and was wont to be afterwards levied by the abbot's bailiffs and to be received for the abbot's use, and that all the abbots of Fécamp had such seisin hitherto both in the time of the lords of Arundel and in the time when the kings of England had the custody of the honour of Arundel, and that 40*s.* that are exacted yearly from the abbot's men were wont (solent) to be paid during the whole time of William de Albiniaco, formerly earl of Arundel, [by] the abbot's men to the said earl's bailiff in the hundred of Palling' at the term of Hokeday, and that after William's death Hugh de Albiniaco, his son and heir, was in the same seisin all his time, receiving the said 40*s.* as pertaining to his hundred of Palling', and that after Hugh's death, John son of Alan, one of Hugh's heirs, to whom the castle of Arundel with the hundred was assigned, was in the same seisin all his time until a year before his death, when the abbot's men withdrew themselves from rendering the rent, so that they have paid no rent since then, neither in the time of John son of Alan, who last died, nor in the time of the late king, to whom the custody of John's lands came: the king therefore orders Robert to permit the abbot and his church to have the same estate as regards the amercements aforesaid as they had in the time of the lords of Arundel and especially in the time of the said (sic) John son of John son of Alan, the last lord of Arundel, until the king or his council shall otherwise provide, and until otherwise ordered, superseding until the king's arrival in England distraints for the said 40*s.*, which John, the last lord of Arundel, did not receive, in order that provision may then be made for doing justice in this behalf.

William de Appledrefeld has shown the king that whereas he stayed in England by the king's order from Midsummer, in the first year of the king's reign, for certain affairs specially touching the king and his realm, for which reason the king took him and his men, lands, rents, and possessions in Ireland into his protection by letters patent, which were duplicated by reason of the peril of the sea, and were transmitted to the justiciary of Ireland by divers envoys by reason of the said peril, and granted that William should be quit of all pleas and suits from Midsummer aforesaid until the Purification following, except pleas of dower unde nihil habet, assizes of novel disseisin and of last presentation, and one of the envoys was wrecked (periclitaretur) in the Irish sea with one of the letters, and the other envoy with the other letters is at present so impeded in the same sea by its inundations and stress (intemperiem) that he could not come to the justiciary or his bailiffs of those parts as quickly as was necessary, as the king learns from the testimony of trustworthy men, and the justiciary's bailiffs of the court of the liberty of Trum have proceeded during the time of the protection aforesaid in a certain suit moved by writ of right in that court between Richard de Foype, demandant, and the said William, deforciant, concerning certain lands in Balimathethan and Matiston, because the said protection did not reach them soon enough, and the king afterwards ordered the justiciary so to provide, saving the claim of the opposite party, that William should not be unjustly precluded from the proper method of defence in this suit for this reason, and the justiciary has hitherto deferred doing this, and does not permit the king's protection aforesaid or any like protection afterwards made to William to benefit him (sibi locum tenere), because no special mention is made in the said protections concerning pleas moved or to be moved, although it is not the manner or custom of the king's chancery to so express them: the king therefore again orders the justiciary to so provide according to the tenor of the former order that William shall not be placed in default in pleas or suits touching him moved in the time of the king's protections or still to be moved, and so that he or his men may not be losers in any way during that term, so that it may not behove the king to be further solicited concerning this matter.

Order to restore to William Comyn 8*l.* that he took from him for the escape of a man, and to permit him to have peace until the coming to that county of the justices in eyre for common pleas, as the escapes of thieves ought to be adjudged before the said justices and not elsewhere.

To the seneschal of Gascony. Order to cause full and speedy justice to be done by lawful judgment of Christians and according to the laws and custom of those parts in all cases of vexations and wrongs inflicted upon the king's Jews there, as the king understands on behalf of the whole community of his Jews of Gascony that the whole community is immoderately aggrieved by divers vexations and injuries.

To the treasurer and barons of the exchequer. Order to cause William Giffard, late sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk, to be acquitted of a moiety of the 159*l.* in which he was lately amerced for divers causes before the king, Martin de Littleb[iry] and his fellows, then justices of the Bench, and before the treasurer and barons, as the king has pardoned him a moiety at the instance of W. archbishop of York, brother of the said William.

May 23. Westminster. To Roger Lestrange (Extraneo), keeper of the forest of the Peak (Pecco). Order to permit Nicholas de Lenn to have, during good behaviour and until otherwise ordered, the bailiwick that he had in that forest at the king's pleasure, to hold in the same way as before.

To John de London[ia], escheator this side Trent. It is shown to the king on behalf of Cicely, late the wife of John de Muscegros, tenant in chief of the king, that whereas the king lately ordered the escheator to take into the king's hands all the lands whereof the said John at his death was seised in his demesne as of fee, the escheator by reason of that order took into the king's hands the manors of Bykenore, Teynton, Langford, Cumpton, and Britfarton, which are of Cicely's inheritance, and unjustly detains them from her: as the king wills that Cicely shall not be injured by him or his ministers in this behalf, he orders the escheator to make inquisition whether the manors are of her inheritance or of the inheritance of John, so that the latter died seised thereof in his demesne as of fee or not, and if he find that the manors are of Cicely's inheritance, he is ordered to restore them to her with everything received from them since they were taken into the king's hands.

May 20. Westminster. To Joseph de Chancy, the treasurer, and to the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews. The king remembers how, at the instance of his mother Queen Eleanor, he pardoned the abbot and convent of St. Mary, Stratford, all pains and usuries of all debts in which they were bound to Master Elias son of Moses, a Jew of London, and to Floria his wife, and other Jews of the realm whatsoever, both their own debts and the debts that Master Elias and Floria exact from them for certain lands in Ginges Muntenye that they bought from William Bocquite, who was indebted in 60*l.* by his charter to Floria before Elias married her: as the greater part of the goods of the abbot and convent are insufficient for payment of the said debts together with the usuries and pains, as the king understands for certain, the king, compassionating their estate and wishing to show them favour, for the health of his soul and of the souls of his ancestors and heirs, has pardoned them all pains and usuries of all the debts aforesaid, and of all other debts in which they are bound to any Jews of the realm by reason of any tenements in their hands, provided that they satisfy the Jews for the principal of the loans (pro principalibus mutuis). The king therefore orders the treasurer and justices to cause inquisition to be made as to how much money the abbot and convent received from the aforesaid Master Elias and Floria or from other Jews, and when they have thus ascertained the amount of the principal debt, they are to cause the Jews to be satisfied for the principal only at terms to be provided by the treasurer and justices, and to cause the abbot and convent to be acquitted of the said usuries and pains, and to cause the charters whereby they are bound for the said debts to be withdrawn from the chest of the chirographers of the Jews, and to cause them to be delivered to the abbot and convent, provided however that if the abbot and convent can show by stars or by other instruments that they have paid anything thereof to the Jews, the treasurer and justices shall cause what they have thus paid to be allowed to them in the loans, and to cause this to be so done and enrolled.

To Philip de Wileby, escheator beyond Trent. Order to cause Robert de Greley, kinsman and heir of Thomas de Greleye, to have seisin of the manors of Mamecestre, Barton and Kynerdelegh, which were in the custody of Edmund, the king's brother, by the late king's commission, as the king lately ordered the escheator to cause Robert to have seisin of Thomas's lands, and he afterwards ordered him to supersede the delivery of the manors aforesaid by reason of the right that Peter de Greleye claimed to have in them before the king, and the king, after treating thereof with his council, taking into consideration that Edmund had the custody of the manors during the minority of the heir by the late king's commission, and that Edmund granted the custody of them to Walter de Percy, who delivered the custody to the aforesaid Peter until the heirs (sic) came of age, and that Peter had the custody of the manors by this commission and for no other reason, has rendered seisin of the manors to Robert, saving the right of Peter if he wish to prosecute it (cum inde loqui voluerit).

May 26. Westminster. To J. de Lond[onia], escheator this side Trent. Order to cause dower to be assigned to Amicia, late the wife of John de Haslee, tenant in chief, as she has taken oath before the king not to marry without his licence.

To the same. Order to deliver to Robert de Farendon, son and heir of Robert de Farendon, the bailiwick of the hundreds that his father held in his lifetime, to be held during the king's pleasure, on condition that he bring the charter by which he claims to have right in the bailiwick to the king at the quinzaine of Michaelmas next, so that there may then be done in this matter what the king shall cause to be provided by his council.

To Philip de Wileby, escheator beyond Trent. Order to permit Alexander de Balliolo and Eleanor de Genover, his wife, to hold until otherwise ordered the castle of Mitford, taken by the escheator into the king's hands, and to restore to them anything received thence in the meantime.

Order to cause to be taken into the king's hands all the debts, goods and chattels that were in the hands of Joceus le Joven, a Jew of York, on the day when the tallage was assessed, and to cause the tallage assessed upon Joceus to be levied thence for the king's use, and to permit Joceus to have peace concerning his body in this behalf.

Order to cause William de Valenc[ia], the king's uncle, and his co-executors of the will of Geoffrey de Lezyniaco, tenant in chief, the king's uncle, to have free administration of all the goods and chattels that belonged to Geoffrey at his death, both in custodies and in other things, for the execution of the will, which goods and chattels were taken into the king's hands in execution of the king's order to the escheator, the king believing that Geoffrey was indebted to the late king or to him at the exchequer, as it now appears to him that Geoffrey at his death was not bound to him in any debts.

The like to Philip de Wilegheby, escheator beyond Trent.

The like to John de London[ia], escheator this side Trent.

To the treasurer and barons of the exchequer of Dublin. William de Valenc[ia] has come to the king, for himself and the other executors of the will of Geoffrey de Leziniaco, and has shewn the king that whereas the king lately assigned to Geoffrey 200*l.* yearly, to be received at that exchequer from the debts in which John de Verdun and Geoffrey de Geynvill were indebted to the king, until the king should provide him with 200*l.* of land yearly in completion of 500*l.* of land yearly granted to him by the late king, and the greater part of the said 200*l.* yearly is still in arrear to William and the other executors, and William has besought the king to cause all the arrears of that sum to be rendered to him and his co-executors for the execution of Geoffrey's will: the king, wishing to be certified, orders the treasurer and barons to search the rolls of the said exchequer, and to certify him what lands he granted to Geoffrey in Ireland before and after the said assignment, and what these lands are worth yearly, and how much Geoffrey and his attorneys received at that exchequer in ready money, and whether they recovered (se tenuerint) from the aforesaid John and Geoffrey the money aforesaid, so that the king should be discharged or not, in order that the king may cause to be done in the premises what he shall see fit by his council.

To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews. Order to cause a certain term on this side of Easter to be assigned to Ralph de Gorges, son of Thomas de Gorges, for the payment of six marks to Deulacres son of Master Elias, a Jew of London, if they ascertain by inquisition or otherwise that Ralph received that sum only as a loan from the said Jew, and to cause Ralph to be acquitted of all usuries and pains in which he is bound to the Jew by his charter by reason of the aforesaid debt, as the king has pardoned him the usuries and pains on condition that he pay the principal debt before Easter.

Vacated, because otherwise below.

May 26. Westminster. To the same and to William de Middelton. Order to cause Cok Hagini, the king's Jew of London, to be acquitted of the tallage lately assessed upon certain of the king's Jews of England, if he pay to the king his right tallage according to the quantity of a third of his chattels, and to permit his body to be in peace in this behalf, as the king caused the tallage aforesaid to be assessed at a third of the Jews' chattels, then in his hands.

To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews. Order to cause the lands of Thomas de Chelewarton to be extended, and to cause terms to be assigned to him according to the value of his lands for the payment of the debts in which he is bound in the Jewry, saving reasonable maintenance to him and his wife and children, in accordance with the late king's writ remaining in the exchequer of the Jews, as the king learns that this matter has been delayed by reason of the late king's death.

Order to cause restitution to be made to the friars Preachers of Roscoman and to others for the following money and goods taken from the friars' church, as the king understands by letters patent of the bishop of Elphin and James de Aldithel[eye], late justiciary of Ireland, that the said James, during the disturbance between him and one who called himself king of Connaught, took from the friars' church 77*l.* 11*s.* 1¾*d.* in money deposited therein by poor men of that county for fear of the disturbance, and also that James took from the church wheat, oats, and other victuals to the value of 8*l.* 2*s.* 7*d.*, and timber to the value of 16*l.*, oats to the value of 11*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, and wheat to the value of 24*s.* 4*d.*, all of which were converted to the use of James and his army then with him.

To Geoffrey de Nevill. Order not to aggrieve the burgesses of Scardeburg until otherwise ordered by reason of the king's order concerning the making of an inquisition by Geoffrey and certain others touching the dispute between William de Percy, constable of the castle of Scardeburg, and the burgesses, as the king wills that the burgesses shall not be aggrieved by reason of that dispute.

To the sheriff of Kent. May 27. Westminster. To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews. Order to cause Ralph de Gorges to have term for payment at Easter next of a debt in which he is bound by charter to Deulacres son of Master Elias, a Jew of London, after enquiry concerning the debt, and, when Ralph shall have kept the term, to cause the said charter to be withdrawn from the chest of the chirographers of the king's Jews at London and delivered to Ralph, and to cause him to be acquitted of all the usuries and pains in which he is bound to Deulacres by the said charter, and to cause this to be so done and enrolled, as the king has pardoned Ralph the said usuries and pains on condition that he satisfy the Jew at the said term for the loan received from him.

To the sheriff of Essex. Order to cause to be replevied to Robert son of Roger de Claveringg his liberty, which the sheriff took into the king's hands because Robert's men are said to have imprisoned the king's bailiffs by Robert's order, as Robert has appeared before the king and has asserted that the bailiffs were not imprisoned by his order, and he has placed himself upon an inquisition concerning this.

the late king granted to him by letters patent that he should not be put upon any assizes, juries, or recognitions, and that he should not be made sheriff, coroner, etc. or other bailiff of the king against his will during his lifetime.

To J. de London[ia], escheator this side Trent. The abbot of Walemond has shown the king that whereas he demised his priory of Stratfeud to John, bishop of Hereford, for John's life, so that it should revert to the abbot or his successors after the bishop's death, the escheator has taken the priory into the king's hands after the bishop's death and detains it from the abbot as if the bishop had been enfeoffed thereof: the king, not wishing to injure the abbot, orders the escheator to make inquisition concerning the matter, and if he find it to be as stated, to cause the abbot to have restitution of the priory, with all goods and chattels and the corn sown in the abbot's lands, on condition that the abbot shall answer therefor to the king unless he can show that they ought of right to pertain to him.

June 4. Westminster. To the treasurer and barons of the exchequer. John de Eyvill has shown the king that whereas the late king pardoned John by his letters patent, which the king has inspected, all trespasses and excesses committed by him in the time of the disturbance in the realm, the treasurer and barons nevertheless exact a considerable sum from him by reason of the said trespasses and excesses: the king, as he wills that John shall not be unduly aggrieved contrary to the said pardon, orders the treasurer and barons to see the said letters patents, and to cause John to have due pardon according to the tenor thereof, so that it may not be necessary for the king to be further solicited in this behalf.

To the same. Whereas the late king, in the 53rd year of his reign, at the present king's petition and for the relief of the Christians, pardoned all Christians in the realm all fees and arrears of fees wherein they were bound to certain Jews, unless the said fees had been previously sold to Christians and had been confirmed by his letters or enrolled in the exchequer, and Simon de Insula is indebted to Gresseus son of Genta in a debt of 20*l.* of fee and to another Jew in a debt of 16*l.* of fee, which fees were then in the late king's hands by the resignation of the said Jews, as the king learns from Simon: the king therefore orders the treasurer and barons to cause Simon to be acquitted of the said fees together with the arrears thereof, and to cause his charters in the treasury concerning the said fees to be delivered to him, and to cause this to be so done and enrolled, although the fees falling to Simon were enrolled in the exchequer after the time aforesaid.

June 3. Westminster. To the sheriff of Kent. Order to receive William de la Clith, clerk, whom W. bishop of Rochester shall cause to be delivered to him, and to cause him to be kept in the king's prison of Rochester or Canterbury by the king's special grant until otherwise ordered by the said bishop.

June 4. Westminster. To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews. Notification that the king has granted to Queen Eleanor, his consort, all the debts, goods and chattels of Cok Hagin, a Jew of London, which pertain to him as forfeited according to the law and custom of his Jewry, because the said Jew is excommunicated, and did not a long time ago permit himself to be justiced according to the custom of the Jewry, and order to cause charters under the name of the said Jew and under the names of certain Christians to be withdrawn from the chest of the chirographers of the Jews, and to cause all the debts, goods and chattels of the said Jew to be delivered to the queen, as ought to be done according to the law and custom of the Jewry and has heretofore been the custom in like case.

To Geoffrey de Gyenvill, justiciary of Ireland. It is shown to the king on behalf of Eudo la Zusche and Milicent his wife that whereas they hold only a fifth of a fifth part of the lands that belonged to William, sometime earl marshal, which [part] fell to the purparty of Eva de Breus[e], and they are prepared to satisfy [the king] for the relief due from Milicent for her portion of the inheritance, the treasurer and barons of the exchequer exact from them 25 marks for the relief, whereas 5 marks only ought to be exacted from them: the king therefore orders the justiciary to make inquisition concerning the premises, and if they find it is so, to discharge Eudo and Milicent of what they ought of right to be discharged of.

To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews. Whereas the king lately granted to Queen Eleanor, his consort, all the debts in which Norman de Arsy was bound to certain Jews of the realm, and ordered the justices to cause the debts to be levied according to the law and custom of the Jewry, and to cause the queen to have them, and she has not yet had the debts in which Norman was indebted to Aaron de la Rye and Moses de Clare: the king order the justices to cause the charters aforesaid (sic) to be withdrawn from the chest of the chirographers, and to cause them to be replaced after they have been made into bills (billicate), and to cause the debts to be levied and to be paid to the queen, and to cause this to be so done and enrolled, so that the queen may make her profit of the charters as shall seem most expedient.

June 5. Westminster. To the same and to William de Middelton, deputed to collect the tallage lately assessed upon certain Jews of England. The king sends to them enclosed in the presents the petition of Aaron Crespyn, a Jew of London, and orders them to retain in the king's hands of the more clear debts of the said Jew in the treasury to the amount of the arrears of the tallage last assessed upon him, and to retain other debts of his, according to the tenor of his petition, and to cause the said debts to be levied for the king's use, and to cause him to be acquitted of the said arrears, and to cause the remainder of his chattels in the treasury by reason of the said arrears to be delivered to him, and to permit his body to be in peace in this behalf.

To the same. Order to cause Jacob de Oxon[ia], a Jew, if he find them sufficient security to pay the tallage last assessed upon him before Michaelmas next, or to render his body to prison at the Tower of London within the quinzaine of that feast that the king's will concerning his body may be done, to have peace concerning his body in the meantime.

To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews. Order to execute the grace that the late king granted to Peter Maunsell concerning the extending of his lands, in accordance with the said king's letter in their possession, as the king has lately continued the said grace.

To the same. Whereas Master Samuel de Loun, the king's Jew of London, and Roesia his wife, who was previously the wife of Aaron son of Leo le Blunt, made fine with the late king to have the chattels of the said Aaron and Leo, and the king afterwards gave 7 marks in which Alexander de Audebiry was bound to Leo, which debt was found amongst the chattels aforesaid, to the nuns of Ivingeho: the king, not wishing to do injury to Samuel by his said grant, orders the justices to cause the said 7 marks to be allowed to Samuel and Roesia in the fine aforesaid or in the other debts in which they are indebted to the king.

June 6. Westminster. Thomas le Folur of Sadbergh and John son of Thomas de Ulveswath, imprisoned at York for the death of Roger Feraunt, whereof they are appealed, have letters to the sheriff of York to bail them.

To John de London[ia], escheator this side Trent. Order to cause dower to be assigned to Christiana, late the wife of Richard de Snyterton, tenant in chief, upon her taking oath not to marry without the king's licence.

To the sheriff of Wilts. Order to cause all the corn sown by the bailiffs of Eleanor, sometime countess of Leicester, in the lands of the manors of Wexecumbe and Bedewynd, which manors belonged to her, and all the other goods in the said manors belonging to her to be delivered to Master Nicholas de Heyham, archdeacon of Bedford, and to Master Nicholas de Wautham, and the other executors of the countess's will, and to cause them to have full administration thereof for the execution of her will.

The like to the sheriffs of Bedford, Hertford, and Buckingham concerning the corn, etc., in the manors of Luton, Grendon, and Weston.

June 6. Westminster. To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews. Whereas Edmund, the king's brother, holds all the lands that belonged to Robert de Ferar[iis] until he shall be satisfied for 50,000*l.*, as is contained in the deeds made to him and enrolled in the late king's rolls of chancery, and Robert is bound in divers debts in the king's Jewry, which are exacted from Edmund by reason of the said lands: the king has granted to Edmund that no distraint shall be made in the said lands for the debts aforesaid so long as the lands shall be in Edmund's hands, saving to the king and his Jews recovery in other lands of Robert and his heirs and in the said lands in case they come to the hands of Robert or his heirs. The king therefore orders the justices to cause Edmund to be acquitted of such distraints, and to cause this to be so done and enrolled.

To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews, and to William de Middelton. Cresseus son of Abraham de Ulton[ia], a Jew, has come to the king and has shown him that they have tallaged him at a third of the 30*l.* in which Roger de Whelton is bound to him by charter in the treasury, and not at more because he has no other goods upon which they could tallage him, and he has requested the king to receive the said 30*l.* wholly by the said charter so that arrest of his body for the tallage may not be proceeded to: the king therefore orders the justices, if it be so, to receive the said 30*l.* for his use, and not to take the Jew by reason of the tallage and not to proceed to the taking of his body.

To John son of Hugh, keeper of the forest of Shrewsbury. Order to permit Roger de Mortuo Mari or his men to take three harts for the king's use in the king's forest of Longemynede, as the king has enjoined upon Roger, and to counsel and aid him in this matter.

May 12. Westminster. To the barons of the exchequer. Whereas Andrew de Treverbyn arramed an assize of novel disseisin by the late king's writ against Robert de Boyton, Richard de Pengelly, William de Pengelly, Gregory de Pemmene, Thomas de Pemmene, Luke de Wya, Maurice de Uppeton, Gilbert de Lanwran, Roger de Lanwran, Nicholas le Chauntour, Maurice Dyan, Roger Tok, Richard Taperel, John Dygge, Alice la Vedue, William de Trenhay, Roger Gervas[e], Gervase de Tolehan, John de Tollohan, William de Pencoit, William de Cogtha, Edward de Rostonall, Robert de Rostonall, Ralph de Kellion, Osebert Taun, Roger Favinton, Roger Maumunt, Roger Bonde, Robert de Lantiwy, Reymbald de Lantywy, Martin de Lantywy, John de Horrebrugg, Richard Wytyn, and William Wyse, the elder, before Stephen Heym, the justice appointed for this purpose, concerning a tenement in Fonyton, and he recovered his seisin against the said men by recognition of the assize and by consideration of the said Stephen, and also 10*l.* for the damages sustained by him through the disseisin, by reason whereof Stephen amerced the said men at 19½ marks, to wit Robert de Boyton at 40*s.* and each of the other disseisors at half a mark, which 19[½] marks are exacted from them by summons of the exchequer, and Robert de Boyton and Mary his wife, feeling themselves unduly aggrieved by the taking of the assize, caused the record and process of the assize to come before the said king in his court at a certain day, and after inspection thereof and consideration of the arguments (altercacionibus) between the parties, it was found that Stephen had not properly proceeded to the taking of the assize, and that he ought not to have proceeded to the taking of the same, because the aforesaid Mary, who was enfeoffed of the tenement jointly with Robert her husband by Geoffrey de Sulny, had her free tenement therein on the day when Stephen took the assize, and the assize ought not to have been taken without her being named in the writ or called in judgment, wherefore it was considered in the said king's court that Robert and Mary should have again seisin of the said tenement, and also the said 10*l.* that Andrew recovered for his damages, saving to Andrew his action by another writ against Robert and Mary if he wished to purchase a writ, as appears to the king by inspection of the record and process before the late king and before the said Stephen: as the king considers it unjust and not consonant with equity that Robert and the others shall be distrained to render the said 19½ marks when the judgment of the assize has been annulled, he orders the treasurer and barons to cause Robert and the other men to be acquitted thereof.

Membrane 12.

Lincoln, as he says: the king orders the treasurer and barons to inspect the rolls and writs of the exchequer, and if they find it is so, to pay to Edmund as speedily as possible the remainder of the said sum from the moneys coming to the exchequer, for which the king will cause them to have a suitable writ.

June 8. Westminster. To Philip de Wileby, escheator beyond Trent. To the treasurer and barons of the exchequer, and to the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews and to William de Middelton. The king sends to them enclosed in the presents the petition of Isaac de Wylton[ia], a Jew, and orders them to inspect the rolls of his exchequer of the Jewry concerning an inquisition taken before them between Richard de Russynden and the said Isaac without Isaac's consent, as he asserts, and to cause to be done for the Jew in this behalf what ought to be done of right and according to the law and custom of the Jewry.

To the same. Hakus son of Roesia de Ebor[aco], a Jew, has shown the king that whereas he has satisfied the king fully for the tallage last assessed upon him, they unjustly exact from him by reason of certain chattels in the king's hands under the name of Solomon son of Isaac, lately deceased, a certain sum of money by reason of the tallage: the king therefore orders them, if they ascertain that the said chattels were in the king's hands on the day when the tallage was assessed, and that they exact the said money from Hakus by reason of the aforesaid chattels and for no other reason, and that Hakus has satisfied the king in full for his tallage, to cause the body of Hakus, which is detained for this reason, to be delivered.

Leicester, which Nicholas de Haversham held of Arnald by knight service, and which was taken into the king's hands by reason of Nicholas's death, retaining in the king's hands the other third in order to dower Nicholas's wife therewith, saving to the king his right in all things when he wish to speak concerning this matter, as it appears to the king by inspection of the rolls of the exchequer that Nicholas held in the manor of Haversham in chief of the honour of Peverel and not of the crown, and also that he did not hold elsewhere of the king in chief, so that the custody of the lands whereof he was seised in his demesne as of fee at his death and of the lands that he held of others by knight service may or ought not of right to pertain to the king.

June 19. Westminster. To G. the pope. He lately ordered the king by his letters to cause to be assigned in full to Master R. de Nogeriis, the pope's chaplain, the yearly census in which the pope asserts that the king is bound to the Roman church by reason of his realm of England, for the last eight years, and the king lately received other letters of the pope's containing that whereas the king caused the answer to the petition for payment of the said census, which the said chaplain had expounded to him, to be reserved for deliberation of the council of proceres of the realm in parliament, which is usually celebrated in England about the octaves of the Resurrection, because at the time of the receipt of the said letters the king had newly undertaken the government of his realm, the king would now cause full satisfaction to be made to the said chaplain for the census without further delay. The king confesses that he called together the prelates and proceres of his realm in the octaves of the Resurrection last, and that he there ordained many things concerning the amelioration of the state of the English church and the reform of the realm, and for the increase of the profit of the people, but before he was able to conclude the said parliament by reason of the multitude of matters needing reformation, the said chaplain meanwhile beseeching that due answer should be made to him, the king was seized with a serious bodily illness, which much impeded the completion of many other matters and the deliberation upon the petition aforesaid, for which the king grieves, and so the parliament was dissolved by reason of the said illness, from which the king begins to recover. For this reason the king was unable to have deliberation with the prelates and proceres concerning the petition, without whose counsel the king cannot answer the pope in this matter, and he is bound by the oath taken at his coronation to preserve uninjured the rights of his realm, and not to do anything touching the crown of the realm without requesting their counsel. The king therefore requests the pope not to be annoyed because he cannot answer at present as the pope desires, and to hold him excused. The king wishes him to know for certain that in the next parliament, which he intends celebrating before Michaelmas, he will, after he have had and communicated counsel with the prelates and proceres, give the pope an answer by their council. [Parl. Writs; Prynne, Records, iii. 158.]

June 4. Westminster. To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews. Amicia de Say and John her son have shown the king that whereas by a recognisance made before the treasurer and barons of the exchequer between them and Haginus son of Moses, a Jew, they agreed, for a fine of 200 marks made with him, which Amicia paid, that the said Jew should acquit Amicia and John against all Jews of all debts in which they were then bound by their charters, and Amicia and John were then bound by their charter to Benedict son of Cok, a Jew, in 140*l.*, which charter was afterwards delivered to Queen Eleanor, the king's consort, for queen-gold (auro) in which the said Jew was indebted to her, and Haginus has hitherto not taken care to acquit Amicia and John of the said sum, whereby the said charter is still detained from them: the king therefore orders the justices, if they ascertain by the aforesaid recognisance that it is so, to cause the charter for 140*l.* to be delivered to Amicia and John, and to cause them to be acquitted of the sum contained therein, and to cause this to be so done and enrolled. It is provided that another charter of Hagin's now in the treasury, which was taken into the king's hands for his tallage, shall be delivered to the queen up to the said sum.

By the treasurer and barons of the exchequer.

* To G. earl of Flanders and Hainault. Whereas it is contained in the form of peace lately made at Moustroyl between the king, on the one part, and the count and his mother, on the other, that the king shall cause it to be inquired what goods and how much have been arrested by the late king and by him, or at his order, by reason of the dispute between the king and the count, of the goods of Flemings in the realm or at sea, and also what goods and how much of the king's merchants of England, Ireland, and the Marches of England were arrested and detained in Flanders by the said countess or her men, and that the king shall certify the count by his letters of what he should find, and also the king granted that the total of the goods of Flemings found in England shall fall to the merchants of Flanders (sic) in part payment of the English goods arrested in Flanders, so that the count shall acquit the king (vos acquietet et nos) and his men against all merchants of Flanders upon whom and from whom the said goods were arrested, upon condition that if the total of the Flemish goods thus arrested in England shall not suffice to pay in full the sum of the goods of English merchants arrested in Flanders or at sea, the count shall cause the king to be satisfied at the king's order, and for this should find the king security, and if the total of the English goods thus arrested shall not attain to the total of the Flemish goods arrested, the king shall cause it to be paid fully to the count: the king therefore signifies to the count that he found by inquisition before John Bek and Fulk Lovel, deputed by the king to hear these matters, made by four merchants on the side of the Flemings and by four merchants on the side of the merchants of England elected for this purpose, that the goods of merchants of England, Ireland, and the Marches of Wales arrested in Flanders amount to the sum of 10,627*l.* 10*s.* 2½*d.* sterling, and that the goods of Flemings arrested in England amount to the sum of 5,871*l.* 13*s.* 2½*d.* sterling, which being subtracted from the former sum, leaves 4,755*l.* 17*s.* 0*d.* for which the count is bound to answer to the king, and [the count is bound to answer] for 730 marks sterling, unless he satisfy Gilbert de Cur', burgess of Ghent, for that sum, which is not reckoned in the preceding sum in which the count is bound for the use of the king's merchants. It is, however, provided that if any merchant of the king's or of the count's merchants can show that a false debt has been exacted, the king is bound to satisfy the count or the count the king, as the case may be. The king therefore orders (sic) the count to send the aforesaid sums of 4,755*l.* 17*s.* 0*d.* and of 730 marks, unless he satisfy Gilbert for the latter, to the king at the octaves of St. Mary to satisfy therewith the merchants aforesaid, and to provide that if the count satisfy Gilbert, the bond of the citizens of London that Gilbert has shall be restored to the citizens.

To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews and to William de Middelton. Order to allow to Benedict son of Abraham, a Jew of Winchester, in the tallage last assessed upon him the 60*l.* in which William de Appeltrefeud is bound to him by charter, as William has acknowledged before the king, of which sum the king is bound to acquit William according to the agreement between him and William, and after this allowance shall be made, to cause Benedict's debts, goods and chattels, taken into the king's hands by reason of the tallage to be restored to him, if he satisfy the king in full for the tallage.

Order, if the debt be attermined in which Simon de Anesy was bound to Elias de Donecastr[ia], a Jew, by his charter sent by the justices and William to the exchequer of the Jewry, by the king's order, to retain the part that the Jew has in the debt for the king's use, and to search the rolls in their custody concerning the payment of the tallage last assessed upon the Jew, and to allow to the Jew the said part in the arrears of the tallage aforesaid, and when the allowance have been made, if the tallage have been paid in full, to cause the Jew's body, arrested for this reason, to be delivered, and to cause his chattels, taken into the king's hands for this reason, to be restored to him.

To the barons of the exchequer. Order to cause John Wyger, sheriff of Devon, to be acquitted of the 100*s.* in which they lately amerced him because he did not come before them at the exchequer on Monday the morrow of the close of Easter last to make his proffer there, as the king has pardoned him this amercement.

July 10. Kempton. To John de London[ia], escheator this side Trent. Order to cause to be assigned to Agatha de Mortuo Mari, daughter and co-heiress of Sibyl, late the wife of William de Ferr[ariis], sometime earl of Derby, the chief messuage of the manor of Luton, which remains to be divided between the co-heirs of Sibyl of the lands that fell to Sibyl of the inheritance of the earl Marshal, to be assigned beyond the extent of her purparty of the said manor, according to the partition of the inheritance aforesaid, as in the partition of the castles, chief messuages and lands that fell to Sibyl made between her co-heirs a castle or chief messuage was assigned to each of them except Agatha beyond the extent of their purparties.

To Philip de Wileby, escheator beyond Trent. Order to restore to Hugh de Eure the manor of Kirkelawe and the park of Mitford, with everything received thence, to be held until the next parliament, which will be in the quinzaine of Michaelmas next, if the escheator took them into the king's hands because Roger Bertram alienated them to Hugh without the king's licence, at which quinzaine the escheator shall inform the king, so that the king may cause to be done by his council in this matter what ought of right to be done.

July 10. Kempton. To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews and to William de Middelton. Whereas Amicia, late the wife of William de Say, lately made fine with Haginus, a Jew of London, for John her son by a certain sum for which the Jew has been satisfied, as the treasurer and barons of the exchequer have informed the king, on condition that the Jew should acquit John of all debts in which he is bound to the king's Jews by charters, wherefore the king lately ordered the justices and William to cause to be delivered to John a charter of 140*l.* under the names of John and Benedict (Benetti) son of Cok, a Jew, which was taken into the king's hands for the tallage last assessed upon Benedict, and Haginus has not satisfied Benedict in anything of the said 140*l.*, as the king learns from Benedict's complaint: the king therefore orders the justices and William, if they ascertain that it is so, to allow the said 140*l.* to Benedict in the tallage last assessed upon him, provided that they cause this sum to be levied for the king's use from the goods and chattels of Haginus.

To the same. Order to cause Moses son of Jacob, a Jew, to have alleviation in his tallage if a debt of 20 marks in which Walter de Ruddestan was bound to him has been attermined, as the king caused all the said Jew's debts to be taken into his hands for the tallage due to him, and afterwards caused the said debt to be attermined.

To Stephen de Penecestr[ia], constable of Dover castle. Order to cause the master and brethren of the king's hospital of God's House, Dover, to have seisin of a plot of land in Dover adjoining their house, as the king learns by inquisition taken by the escheator that the plot, which adjoins the said house, in which the poor and infirm are admitted, which plot the master and brethren have besought the king to grant to them in order to construct a column for the widening of the said house, is held of the king and of no other, and that the king receives nothing from it yearly, and was not wont to receive anything from it, and that he might grant it to the master and brethren for this purpose without any nuisance or damage to him and without injury to any one else, and that his street there is wide enough, and would still remain sufficient for going, riding, driving (fugandi)

July 16. Windsor. To Anthony du Bek, constable of the Tower of London, or to him who supplies his place. It is shown to the king on behalf of John Pynchepol, Richard son of William, Stephen le Teler, and Robert Noteman that whereas Thomas de Sandwyco, sheriff of Essex, — because John de Lassaundr[e], the king's bailiff at Mangeden, wished to attach a felon within the liberty of Robert son of Roger, where hue and cry was raised by the said felon and by other men, so that the bailiffs of the liberty took and imprisoned the king's bailiff and the felon — charged the said John, Richard, Stephen, and Robert, who came to the said hue and cry in order to keep the king's peace, with taking and imprisoning the said king's bailiff, and the said Thomas afterwards caused them to be taken and imprisoned, and extorted grievous ransoms from them, whereupon the king appointed John de Cobeham and Elias de Bekingham his justices to enquire as to the truth of the premises by the oath of men of the vicinity of Manggeden at a day and place to be provided before Midsummer last, and the said justices ordered the sheriff to cause men to come before them for this purpose, and the sheriff at that date caused men from a distance and not of the vicinity who were ignorant of the truth and certainty of the deed aforesaid to come before the justices, and the justices, when it was found that John, Richard, Stephen, and Robert were being treated maliciously, would not proceed to take the inquisition by such recognizors and would not commit John, Richard, Stephen, and Robert to the will or custody of the sheriff, but committed them to the constable to be kept in the Tower until the king should otherwise order: the king, compassionating their grievances, orders the constable to deliver each of them in bail to twelve mainpernors, who shall mainpern to have them before the king in fifteen days from Michaelmas or at another time at the king's order to stand to right if he or the said Thomas wish to speak against them in this matter.

March 13. Temple Bruer. To the sheriff of Nottingham. Whereas the king learns that the knights and other prisoners in that castle, murmuring against the constable, demand clamorously space to walk more freely and more ample delicacies (delicias) in food and drink, the king, reflecting that if looser reins were granted to them in this behalf, peril might arise to him or to others thereby, therefore orders the constable to administer to them reasonable maintenance without such excess of victuals and charge of expenses, and to cause the said knights and others imprisoned in the castle to be kept more strictly and narrowly, lest by any chance peril arise to the king or others from their insolence or scandal arise to the constable.

To the bailiff of the islands, or to him who supplies their place. Whereas the king learns by inquisition taken by the bailiff that Arnald Johannis, when he was bailiff of the islands, caused to be taken and carried away from the priory of Wrale, in the island of Gerner[eye], which priory was in the king's custody by reason of the voidance of the abbey of Mont St. Michel, against the will of the monks and others in the priory, 50 quarters of wheat, 220 quarters of barley, and 8 tuns of Gascony wine, which pertained to the priory by reason of their part of a ship there wrecked (periclitata), and 65*s.* Tournois for their part of the sale of the timber of the said ship, and 2½ tuns of wine and 35*s.* for their part of another ship there wrecked, and 20*s.* for their part of a tun of wine found in the sea, and their part of three fish called 'porpoys' there found, and that Arnald still detains these things from the monks; the king orders the bailiff to distrain Arnald by all his goods and chattels in the islands to restore all the premises or the value thereof to the monks, as is just and has been the custom heretofore in the like case.

Membrane 9.

June 2. Westminster. To the justices appointed for the custody of the Jews and to William de Middelton. The king understands from the complaint of Leo de Norwyco, a Jew, and of Jiwa, his wife, that whereas the late king gave to Queen Eleanor, the king's mother, all the chattels and debts that belonged to Sadekinus, a late Jew of Northampton, formerly the husband of the said Jiwa (Jywe), which came to the said king's hands by reason of certain trespasses charged upon Sadekinus, and Eleanor had the debts and chattels, nevertheless the justices and William have tallaged (talliastis) the said debts because the charters of the debts of Sadekinus were found in the treasury at the time of the last tallage assessed upon the community of the Jews of England, and they exact the tallage from Leo and Jiwa; as it is unjust that Leo and Jiwa shall be tallaged or molested for goods and chattels that came to the hands of the said queen, the king orders the justices and William to desist wholly from the demand upon Leo and Jiwa by reason of the debts and chattels aforesaid.

Essex and another of 100*s.* under the name of Ralph del Gardin of co. Northampton, in order that he should be quit of the tallage, which debts the bishop and his fellows took for the king's use, nevertheless the justices and William distrain him to render the tallage to the king; as it is unjust that the Jew should be bound or distrained to pay the tallage, the king orders the justices and William to look to (capiatis) the said debts, and to cause the Jew to be acquitted of the tallage, and to cause him to have peace concerning it.

Mar. 19. Kirkton. To Master Roger de Seyton and his fellows, justices in eyre at the Tower of London. Order to cause to be observed in their eyre the following provisions made by the late king, the present king, and his council and others who had agreed (convenerant) with the late king at Marleberge: that if appeal or complaint of robbery and breach of the peace or homicide should be made before justices in eyre or of other offences in the time of the war against any who were against the late king or against others, or if presentments of such offences should be made as are wont to be made at the capitula of the crown, no one should lose life or limb or incur the penalty of perpetual imprisonment on these grounds, but that justice should be done in another manner concerning damages or things lost or carried off and trespasses according to the discretion of the late king's justices, and moreover that the contents of the Dictum of Kenilleworth should be diligently observed, and that the justices should have in all their eyres a transcript of the Dictum, so that the said king's justices in eyre should do nothing concerning those things that had been determined or ought to be determined by other justices of the said king, without special order from the said king if he should enjoin anything upon them. They are to know that the war began on April 4, in the 48th year of the late king's reign, when the same king went with his army from Oxford to Northampton with banners displayed, and that it lasted continuously until Sept. 16, in the 49th year, when at Winchester, after the battle of Evesham, he caused his peace to be confirmed and proclaimed in the presence of the barons who had come thither. It was provided that no one should lose life or limb for robberies or homicides or other things done under the guise of war by those who were against the late king from 4 June, in the 47th year of his reign, when they first, going through the land with banners displayed, committed robberies, homicides, and imprisonments on persons ecclesiastical and secular, until the said time when the said king went with his army from Oxford to Northampton. Concerning other things that were not done under guise of war during that time, [it was decided that] that time should be regarded as a time of peace. From the time aforesaid when he caused his peace to be strengthened and confirmed at Winchester, the law should run as in time of peace it was wont to run; provided that for those who were at Axeholm or at Kenill[eworth], or in the Isle of Ely, or at Cestrefeld or, afterwards at Southwark (Suwerk) there should be observed fully their peace as they ought to have it, whether by the Dictum of Kenil[leworth] or by their privileges of the peace granted to them. Concerning those who were with the earl of Gloucester in the last disturbance, the peace made between the late king and the earl shall be observed, so that from the time when the earl went from Wales to London until the day when he went from the city aforesaid, justices should not proceed against him or against those who were in his peace, and this provision is to be understood of him only. Concerning depredations made on both sides during the time aforesaid, there should be observed what is contained in the peace made between the late king and the said earl. Order to cause an extent of the lands of Simon de Creye to be made, and to assign a quarter thereof to the Jews to whom he is indebted, saving to him his chief messuage and three parts of his lands for the maintenance of himself and family, notwithstanding that the king lately ordained that Christians indebted to Jews should retain the chief messuage and a moiety of their lands and that the other moiety should be delivered to the Jews until the debts had been levied therefrom.

The king after his coronation, in the second year of his reign, ordered Llewelyn (Lewelino) son of Griffin, prince of Wales, to come to do the homage and fealty due to him for the land of Wales; and Llewelyn did not come for this purpose within a year from the coronation, so that the king caused him to be summoned to be at Chester in the quinzaine of the Assumption in the third year of his reign to do the said homage and fealty, and he offered to him safe and sure conduct in coming, staying, returning, etc., although the king was not bound to do so. And Llewelyn did not come at that day, but sent certain frivolous excuses by his envoys and by letter to the king, so that it was decided that he should be summoned again to be at Westminster for the aforesaid purpose in three weeks from the following Michaelmas. At which day he did not come, but sent unreasonable excuses as before, so that it was decided that he should be again summoned to come to Winchester in the octaves of St. Hilary following for the aforesaid purpose. And Llewelyn did not come at that day, but excused his absence by letters and envoys insufficiently, as above, so that the king, of his grace, caused him to be summoned a third time to come to Westminster in three weeks from the following Easter to do his homage and fealty. On which day Llewelyn did not come, but pretended insufficient excuses by his letter and envoys, as before, so that R. archbishop of Canterbury and certain bishops and other prelates, earls and barons strongly besought the king that they by themselves and their envoys might ask, inform and induce Llewelyn to do his homage and fealty, and that the king would supersede for the time further execution of the said matter. To which prayers the king acceded, so that they frequently sent the archdeacon of Canterbury as their envoy to Llewelyn to treat upon this matter, which could not be consummated, although the archdeacon laboured much to this end with due expedition.

Afterwards, in fifteen days from Michaelmas, in the fourth year of the reign, at Westminster Llewelyn signified to the king by his letter that he would come to Muntgomery or Oswestry (Album Monasterium Johannis filii Alani) to do his homage to the king, provided that the king caused him to have safe-conduct, to wit by the archbishop of Canterbury and the archdeacon of the same place, the bishop of Winchester, the earls of Cornwall, Norfolk, Lincoln, Gloucester, Warenne, and Roger de Mortuo Mari, in coming, staying, and returning, without any challenge or demand being moved against him by anyone whilst there attending (in sua presencia), and provided that the king should first confirm by his letters the form of the peace made between the late king and Llewelyn, and that the king should cause to be supplied the things that were lacking to him of the said peace, and that the king should restore to him his wife and her train, etc.

And hereupon, before the king, the archbishop of Canterbury, W. bishop of Rochester, J. bishop of London, H. bishop of Ely, R. bishop of Bath and Wells, Thomas, bishop of Hereford, and A. bishop of St. Asaph, the abbots of St. Albans, Glastonbury, Abbindon, and York, brother Joseph, prior of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, W. de Valencia, E. earl of Cornwall, G. earl of Gloucester and Hertford, R. earl of Norfolk, J. earl of Surrey, H. earl of Lincoln, W. earl of Warwick, H. earl of Hertford and Essex, and R. earl of Oxford, R. de Mortuo Mari, J. de Vescy, B. Wak, R. son of Peter, W. de Brehus', R. de Roos, J. de Sancto Johanne, R. son of Roger, P. de Monte Forti, P. de Cadurc[is], E. la Zuch, R. la Zuch, R. de Nevill, R. de Tibbotot, R. de Grey, B. de Suthlegh, R. son of Walter, and other magnates of the king's council, justices and other faithful subjects of the king, on the morrow of Martinmas following, at Westminster, the aforesaid process having been recited and Llewelyn's letter heard and understood, because Llewelyn had been many times summoned by the king to come at certain days and places to do his homage and fealty, which he ought to have done without being requested, and refused to do so in due manner and contemned in all the premises to obey the king, unless the king should be forced (artaret se) to do what he is not bound to do, as appears manifestly, and Llewelyn has not observed what is contained in the form of the peace made between the late king and him, but rather presumed to break and infringe all the things contained in the peace that touch the king, contrary to his promise and obligation and oath, and finally had lately despoiled the king and his subjects in the marches of Wales by himself and his helpers in hostile manner, slaying some men, burning, and spoiling, and received and receives daily the spoilers and homicides, contrary to the peace of the king and his realm —it is agreed by the common council of all the aforesaid prelates, earls, barons, and others that the king shall not hear the aforesaid petition of Llewelyn, and shall not admit his excuses noted above, but that he shall go against Llewelyn as his rebel and as a disturber of his peace, and that all those who hold of the king in chief and owe him service shall be summoned to be at Worcester at Midsummer next with horses and arms and with all their service, to set out with the king into Wales against Llewelyn and his aiders, unless it shall seem to the king or to him who supplies his place that the summons requires greater haste, and then reasonable premonition shall be made; and that all the marches shall be guarded with sufficient garrisons. And the king from now inhibits, and it is agreed, that throughout England, Ireland and Gascony it shall be inhibited that from henceforth no one shall communicate with Llewelyn or his aiders, or shall aid, council or favour them secretly or openly, and that no one shall take into their land, or permit to be taken thither through their land or power, by land or by sea, victuals, horses, arms or other things that may be useful to men in anyway, and that no one shall hereafter make truce with the rebels, and if any truce be made or confirmed, it shall be henceforth wholly powerless, so that if any one contravene the said inhibitions and shall be convicted thereof, he shall undergo judgment and pain befitting one who adheres to the public enemy of his liege lord the king and of the realm and who consents to the evil deeds of the enemy, spurning the king's inhibition. [Fœdera; Parl. Writs.]

To the barons of the exchequer. Order to cause the bailiffs and men of Montgomery to be acquitted of the 10 marks exacted from them for tallage, of the late king's debts, as the king has granted to them this sum in aid of the walling of the town (ville claudende).

Order to deliver Walter le Seler, imprisoned at Shrewsbury for the death of Thomas Crok, in bail to twelve men who shall mainpern to have him before the justices at the first assize to stand to right if any one wish to speak against him, as the king learns from William de Kareswell, one of the justices appointed to deliver the gaol, that Walter slew Thomas by mischance and not by felony or of malice aforethought.

The like to the said sheriff in favour of Walter le Seler, imprisoned at Shrewsbury for the death of Thomas Crok, by the testimony of the said William.*

To the treasurer and barons of the exchequer. The king learns from the complaint of John son of Hugh and of all the community of cos. Dec. 2. Shrewsbury. To the same. Order to cause William de Haneworth to have seisin of a messuage in Badington, which the king caused to be taken into his hands after the death of Hervey de Borham, tenant in chief, as the king learns by inquisition taken by the steward that the messuage, which Robert Burnell demised to Hervey in the late king's time by reason of William's minority, who was then in Robert's wardship, ought to descend of right to William as his escheat after Hervey's death because Adam de Cestreton, to whom and his heirs Roger de Haneworth, William's father, demised the messuage, was a bastard and died seised thereof.

March 21. Down Ampney. To R. bishop of Bath and Wells, the chancellor, and to Otto de Grandisono. The king commends the care and solicitude exhibited by them in his affairs in the court of France, for which he thanks them, and he hopes that they will finish prudently at fitting times what they have there begun wisely. He therefore orders them and requests them to fulfil and complete properly with all diligence and industry according to their discretion the affairs enjoined upon them by him for which they now journeying to Gascony, in accordance with the duty of the office undertaken by them, observing in all things the order and honesty of right, and this they are enjoined not to omit for the sake of any acceleration of their return to England, especially as the king has no one about him whom he believes could know the premises and do his will in the premises better and more advantageously than them, not even if he were himself to attend to the matters there in person. As the Gascons are reputed to be very full of cavil (cavillosi) and changeable in their agreements, proposals, promises, and deeds, the king believes it to be very necessary that the bishop and Otto shall cause all and singular the things that shall be agreed upon, ordained, and done by them with the Gascons to be done diligently and circumspectly by means of writings, penalties, and other sorts of obligations, and especially the deeds concerning the count of Périgord, concerning which, as the king understands, greater and more diligent caution should be exhibited; so that in times to come they shall not presume in their insolence boldly to contravene their own deeds, and so that their own deed and surety may be objected to their faces eye to eye to repress their malice for ever. Concerning those things that the bishop and Otto have signified to the king by the aforesaid (sic) Anthony, he orders them to show always in those things the faith and belief of St. Mary, the Lord's mother, rather than the faith of St. Thomas the Apostle, for it shall never happen that the king for any cause shall wish to revoke or change their deeds there, but he will cause to be observed and held firmly hereafter those things, which he deems rather his own deeds than theirs. In addition, he wishes them to know that he and the affairs of his land of England and of the Marches are prospering by God's grace as he would wish, for even Llewelyn, prince of Wales, appearing before the king's justices there, with good will seeks and receives justice and judgment before the justices concerning those things that he demands from others and that are demanded from him by others; and A. king of Scotland has offered and tendered to the king unconditionally his homage due to the king by his solemn envoys, and the king has given him day to do this at London at the quinzaine of Michaelmas next, when the bishop and Otto will be present, God willing. The king has for certain reasons detained their yeoman, the bearer of the presents, for four days until the coming of the aforesaid Anthony to him, and he wills that they shall excuse the yeoman's delay. He wishes them to signify to him by frequent information any news worthy of relation when they hear them. [Fœdera.]

To the treasurer and barons of the exchequer. Whereas Alan de Asshton, kinsman and heir of Stephen de Asshton, sometime the late king's sheriff of Somerset and Dorset, a minor in the wardship of Nicholas de Apperl[eye], is indebted in divers debts at the exchequer for the debts of the said Stephen, his grandfather, for the time when Stephen was sheriff, which are exacted from Alan by summons of the exchequer, by reason of which exaction and of Alan's poverty the lands falling to him by inheritance lie fallow (frisca) and uncultivated, and the king is given to understand that the lands are so little (exilia) and the issues thereof and the means of Alan are so slender that they are insufficient for payment of the debts aforesaid, unless he be aided by the king's goodwill: the king, compassionating Alan's poverty and his tender age, orders the treasurer and barons to allow to Alan all payments that he can shew before them by tallies or otherwise to have been made and that have not previously been allowed, and to cause him to have reasonable terms at which he may be able to render the remainder according to his means.

——— Letter from Robert de Ufford to the king, acknowledging receipt of the ——— king's letters touching the affairs of Sir Geoffrey de Geynvile, wherein it was contained that Geoffrey had given the king to understand that he was aggrieved by the king's justices and ministers in Ireland in writs and other matters, and that Robert ought to hear his grievances and to make amends to him if he found that Geoffrey had been wrongfully aggrieved. Robert asked him in what he felt himself aggrieved, and he replied in this, that whereas he had, as he said, his franchise and separate county, not within the county of Dublin (Diveline), the chancellor had written to the sheriff concerning many matters when he ought to have written to Geoffrey or to his steward. And it was demanded of the chancellor how he had used this matter, and he said that he had never written except to the sheriff, but that he heard always (turjur) that Geoffrey and his men were making complaint as to this matter. Afterwards Geoffrey said that he was now aggrieved afresh by a return that came to his steward that he should cause many men of his franchise to be put under surety and others to be attached by their bodies to come to answer at Dublin, which matter was never done in his time, as he said. He was then told that it was found by inquisition that he and his men received the king's felons and burners of the king's land and outlaws. He answered that he knew well that he is respondent to the king as his lord, and his men to him in all pleas. And whereas he has his franchise and his county by itself, and is not in the county of Dublin, as he says, he and his men are not bound to know the deeds of the king's counties or to answer. The king's council was advised that if he or any of his men are charged with the receipt of the king's felons or outlaws, they are fully bound to answer in the king's court unless they can acquit themselves of knowing that they [the felons or outlaws] were such, or in another manner. Robert desires the king to send to him his will concerning this matter. French. [Addressed: 'A mun segnor le rei de Engleterre."]

Feb. 7. Woodstock. To N. the pope. The king has confidence in the pope that he will hear his prayers with favour and that he will admit them with even more favour to the grace of the desired assent (exauditionis), more especially such as do not desert honesty and do not disagree with equity. The goodwill of the apostolic see in times long past granted to the English, amongst other insignia of honour, that no Englishman may be called out of the realm to judgment by letters of that see; and now in the present pope's time the inhabitants of this realm are drawn out of the realm to] judgment confusedly (quasi passim et indistincte) by the pope's letters contrary to the privileges aforesaid, to their great labour, expenses and costs and perils of their persons; and the king has been many times requested by the inhabitants of his realm to provide a remedy in this behalf. The king therefore requests the pope to preserve to the English, the devoted sons of the Roman church, the privileges granted to them by the pope's predecessors, and that he will rather amplify, in consideration of the king's devotion, the things that have been granted by the apostolic see, and that he will alleviate their grievances and expenses, more especially as there is free access and regress into and out of the realm for all wishing to come thither, and by God's grace the realm is in such peace and tranquillity that any stranger may freely sue for his rights against any native. Whereas William de Valencia demanded against Roger le Bygod, earl of Norfolk and Marshal of England, 6*l.* 16*s.* 6½*d.* yearly of land and rent in the earl's manor of Strigoyl, which land and rent fell to William and Joan his wife of the inheritance of the Marshals, it is agreed at Gloucester on Thursday the morrow of St. Laurence, 6 Edward, before the king and his council, that the earl shall grant, so that the manor shall remain wholly without dismemberment, that in the manor of Kemesing, co. If the earl do not show before Martinmas that satisfaction has been made to William and Joan or any of their ancestors by the said lands in Cestreford for the part falling to them in Strugoyl, and if the earl afterward learn that exchange had been made as he now understands, action shall be saved to the earl to demand exchange or value as if William and Joan had been tenants of the aforesaid purparty in the manor of Strigoyl. To Stephen de Penecestre, Walter de Helyun, and John de Cobeham, justices appointed to hear and determine pleas of trespasses of money, and to Philip de Wyleghby. Whereas the king is given to understand that certain Jews of his realm have not and do not fear to blaspheme the catholic faith and the church sacraments; the king wishing, as befits a catholic prince, to repress such blasphemies, wills that no Jew shall presume to blaspheme in such manner hereafter, to wit by saying or doing any detestable or abominable error in blasphemy of the crucifix of the catholic faith or of St. Mary the Virgin or of the church sacraments. The king wills that this shall be publicly proclaimed in all places of the realm in which the Jews dwell, and that no Jew shall presume to do or say these things under peril of life and limb. If any notorious blasphemer be found, so that he may be convicted by the oath of good and grave Christians, the king wills every such shall be punished according to what has been wont to be done in such cases upon other occasions. The like shall be done with those who were baptized at any time when converted to the catholic faith and afterwards perverted to the Jewish wickedness. The king wills that Jewish women shall henceforth bear a sign on their outer (superiori) garment as Jewish men do; and that Jews shall not from henceforth have Christian servants, male or female, dwelling with them in any services either in their own houses or in other houses in the cities and places where the Jews dwell, but the Jews shall serve and minister to one another in all things, and this shall be enjoined everywhere upon Christians and Jews under grievous forfeiture. The king wills that all Christians who wish to redeem their pledges found amongst the goods of condemned Jews, shall prove such pledges to be their property by faithful witnesses of good fame and shall describe them by certain signs and indications, and such witnesses shall be believed in so far as they shall appear to be of greater or less fame. If by chance they are unable to prove by witnesses that the pledges are theirs because the witnesses are dead or absent or because the pledges were pawned secretly and without witnesses, then the oath of the owners of the pledges shall suffice, provided that they describe the pledges by certain signs and indications, as is aforesaid, and this shall in no wise be omitted by reason of the lapse of a year from the time of the pawning. The king wills moreover that all who shall prove by trustworthy witnesses that they have paid their debts for their pledges, and that they have not received the pledges from the Jews for any certain cause to be shown by them before the said justices and Philip or by reason of the malice of the Jews, shall not be compelled to make renewed payment of the debts and the witnesses shall be believed according to their repute, other witnesses being added to them, if necessary, according to the discretion of the justices and Philip. Concerning books pledged at Oxford, the king wills that no judgment shall be given before All Saints next. The king also wills that public proclamation shall be made in cities, boroughs, market towns and elsewhere that no one shall receive the goods of Jews condemned or to be condemned, or shall conceal or hide any already received, but shall restore them to the king before St. Peter ad Vincula next, otherwise the king will punish (graviter capiemus) them as concealers and hiders of the treasure of the realm. CALENDARS OF STATE PAPERS, &c.

[IMPERIAL 8vo., cloth. Price 15*s*. each Volume or Part.]

Subsequent to recommendations of Committees of the House of Commons in 1800 and 1836, the Master of the Rolls, in 1865, stated to the Lords of the Treasury that although "the Records, State Papers, "and Documents in his charge constitute the most complete and perfect "series of their kind in the civilized world," and although "they are "of the greatest value in a historical and constitutional point of view, yet "they are comparatively useless to the public, from the want of proper "Calendars and Indexes." Whereupon their Lordships assented to the necessity of having Calendars prepared and printed, and empowered the Master of the Rolls to take such steps as might be necessary for this purpose.

THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

[ROYAL 8vo. Price 10*s*. each Volume or Part.]

1. THE CHRONICLE OF ENGLAND, by JOHN CAPGRAVE. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A. 1858.

   Capgrave's Chronicle extends from the creation of the world to the year 1417. Being written in English, it is of value as a record of the language spoken in Norfolk.

2. CHRONICON MONASTERII DE ABINGDON. Vols. I. and II. Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH STEPHENSON, M.A., Vicar of Leighton Buzzard. 1858.

   This Chronicle traces the history of the monastery from its foundation by King Ina of Wessex, to the reign of Richard I. The author incorporates into his history various charters of the Saxon kings, as illustrating not only the history of the locality but that of the kingdom.

3. LIVES OF EDWARD THE CONFESSOR. I.—La Estoire de Seint Aedward le Rei. II.—Vita Beati Edvardi Regis et Confessoris. III.—Vita Æduuardi Regis qui apud Westmonasterium requiescit. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1858.

   The first is a poem in French, probably written in 1245. The second is an anonymous poem, written between 1440 and 1450, which is mainly valuable as a specimen of the Latin poetry of the time. The third, also by an anonymous author, was apparently written between 1066 and 1074.

   Vol. I.—Thomas de Eccleston de Adventu Fratrum Minorum in Angliam. Adæ de Marisco Epistolæ. Registrum Fratrum Minorum Londoniæ. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London.

   Vol. II.—De Adventu Minorum; re-edited with additions. Chronicle of the Grey Friars. The ancient English version of the Rule of St. Francis. Abbreviatio Statutorum, 1451, &c. Edited by RICHARD HOWLETT, Barrister-at-Law. 1858, 1882.

5. FASCICULI ZIZANIORUM MAGISTRI JOHANNIS WYCLIF CUM TRITICO. Ascribed to THOMAS NETTER, of WALDEN, Provincial of the Carmelite Order in England, and Confessor to King Henry the Fifth. Edited by the Rev. W. W. SHIRLEY, M.A., Tutor and late Fellow of Wadham College, Oxford. 1858.

   This work gives the only contemporaneous account of the rise of the Lollards.

6. THE BUIK OF THE CRONICLIS OF SCOTLAND; or, A Metrical Version of the History of Hector Boece; by WILLIAM STEWART. Vols. I.-III. Edited by W. B. TURNBULL, Barrister-at-Law. 1858.

   This is a metrical translation of a Latin Prose Chronicle, written in the first half of the 16th century. The narrative begins with the earliest legends and ends with the death of James I. of Scotland, and the "evil ending of the traitors that slew him." The peculiarities of the Scottish dialect are well illustrated in this version.

7. JOHANNIS CAPGRAVE LIBER DE ILLUSTRIBUS HENRICIS. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A. 1858.

   The first part relates only to the history of the Empire from the election of Henry I. the Fowler, to the end of the reign of the Emperor Henry VI. The second part is devoted to English history, from the accession of Henry I. in 1100, to 1446, which was the twenty-fourth year of the reign of Henry VI. The third part contains the lives of illustrious men who have borne the name of Henry in various parts of the world

8. HISTORIA MONASTERII S. AUGUSTINI CANTUARIENSIS by THOMAS OF ELMHAM, formerly Monk and Treasurer of that Foundation. Edited by CHARLES HARDWICK, M.A., Fellow of St. Catherine's Hall, and Christian Advocate in the University of Cambridge. 1858.

This history extends from the arrival of St. Augustine in Kent until 1191.

9. EULOGIUM (HISTORIARIUM SIVE TEMPORIS): Chronicon ab Orbe condito usque ad Annum Domini 1366; a monacho quodam Malmesbiriensi exaratum. Vols. I.-III. Edited by F. S. HAYDON, B.A. 1858-1863.

This is a Latin Chronicle extending from the Creation to the latter part of the reign of Edward III., with a continuation to the year 1413.

10. MEMORIALS OF HENRY THE SEVENTH; Bernardi Andreæ Tholosatis Vita Regis Henrici Septimi; necnon alia quædam ad eundem Regem Spectantia. Edited by JAMES GAIRDNER. 1858.

The contents of this volume are—(1) a life of Henry VII., by his poet Laureate and historiographer, Bernard André, of Toulouse, with some compositions in verse, of which he is supposed to have been the author; (2) the journals of Roger Machado during certain embassies to Spain and Brittany, the first of which had reference to the marriage of the King's son, Arthur, with Catharine of Arragon; (3) two curious reports by envoys sent to Spain in 1505 touching the succession to the Crown of Castile, and a project of marriage between Henry VII. and the Queen of Naples; and (4) an account of Philip of Castile's reception in England in 1506. Other documents of interest are given in an appendix.

11. MEMORIALS OF HENRY THE FIFTH. I.—Vita Henrici Quinti, Roberto Redmanno auctore. II.—Versus Rhythmici in laudem Regis Henrici Quinti. III.—Elmhami Liber Metricus de Henrico V. Edited by CHARLES A. COLE. 1858.

12. MUNIMENTÆ GILDHALLÆ LONDONIENSIS; Liber Albus, Liber Custumarum, et Liber Horn, in archivis Gildhallæ asservati.

Vol. III., Translation of the Anglo-Norman Passages in Liber Albus, Glossaries, Appendices, and Index.

Edited by HENRY THOMAS RILEY, M.A., Barrister-at-Law. 1859-1862.

The Liber Albus, compiled by John Carpenter, Common Clerk of the City of London in the year 1419, gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of that City in the 12th, 13th, 14th, and early part of the 15th centuries. The Liber Custumarum was compiled in the early part of the 14th century during the reign of Edward II. It also gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of the City of London in the 12th, 13th, and early part of the 14th centuries.

13. CHRONICA JOHANNIS DE OXENEDES. Edited by SIR HENRY ELLIS, K.H. 1859.

Although this Chronicle tells of the arrival of Hengist and Horsa, it substantially begins with the reign of King Alfred, and comes down to 1292. It is particularly valuable for notices of events in the eastern portions of the kingdom.

14. A COLLECTION OF POLITICAL POEMS AND SONGS RELATING TO ENGLISH HISTORY, FROM THE ACCESSION OF EDWARD III. TO THE REIGN OF HENRY VIII. Vols. I. and II. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, M.A. 1859-1861.

18. A COLLECTION OF ROYAL AND HISTORICAL LETTERS DURING THE REIGN OF HENRY IV. 1399-1404. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1860.

19. THE REPRESSOR OF OVER MUCH BLAMING OF THE CLERGY. By REGINALD PECOCK, sometime Bishop of Chichester. Vols. I. and II. Edited by the Rev. CHURCHILL BABINGTON, B.D., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1860.

The author was born about the end of the fourteenth century, consecrated Bishop of St. Asaph in the year 1444, and translated to the see of Chichester in 1450. His work gives a full account of the views of the Lollards, and has great value for the philologist.

20. ANNALES CAMBRIÆ. Edited by the Rev. JOHN WILLIAMS AB ITHEL, M.A. 1860.

These annals, which are in Latin, commence in 447, and come down to 1288. The earlier portion appears to be taken from an Irish Chronicle used by Tigernach, and by the compiler of the Annals of Ulster.

There are at present six independent manuscripts of the Saxon Chronicle, ending in different years, and written in different parts of the country. Edited by HENRY THOMAS RILEY, M.A., Barrister-at-Law. 1863-1876.

In the first two volumes is a History of England, from the death of Henry III. to the death of Henry V., by Thomas Walsingham, Precentor of St. Albans.

In the 3rd volume is a Chronicle of English History, attributed to William Rishanger, who lived in the reign of Edward I.: an account of transactions attending the award of the kingdom of Scotland to John Balliol, 1291-1292, also attributed to William Rishanger, but on no sufficient ground: a short Chronicle of English History, 1292 to 1300, by an unknown hand: a short Chronicle, Willelmi Rishanger Gesta Edwardi Primi, Regis Angliæ, probably by the same hand: and fragments of three Chronicles of English History, 1295 to 1307.

In the 4th volume is a Chronicle of English History, 1259 to 1296: Annals of Edward II., 1307 to 1323, by John de Trokelowe, a monk of St. Albans, and a continuation of Trokelowe's Annals, 1323, 1324, by Henry de Blaneforde: a full Chronicle of English History, 1392 to 1406. and an account of the benefactors of St. Albans, written in the early part of the 15th century.

The 5th, 6th, and 7th volumes contain a history of the Abbots of St. Albans, 793 to 1411 mainly compiled by Thomas Walsingham, with a Continuation.

The 8th and 9th volumes, in continuation of the Annals, contain a Chronicle probably of John Amundesham, a monk of St. Albans.

The 10th and 11th volumes relate especially to the acts and proceedings of Abbots Whethamstede, Albon, and Wallingford.

The 12th volume contains a compendious History of England to the reign of Henry V. and of Normandy in early times, also by Thomas Walsingham, and dedicated to Henry V.

29. CHRONICON ABBATIÆ EVESHAMENSIS, AUCTORIBUS DOMINICO PRIORE EVESHAMIÆ ET THOMA DE MARLEBERGE ABBATE, A FUNDATIONE AD ANNUM 1213, UNA CUM CONTINUATIONE AD ANNUM 1418. Edited by the Rev. W. D. MACRAY, Bodleian Library, Oxford. 1863.

The Chronicle of Evesham illustrates the history of that important monastery from 690 to 1418. Its chief feature is an autobiography, which makes us acquainted with the inner daily life of a great abbey. Interspersed are many notices of general, personal, and local history.

30. RICARDI DE CIRENCESTRIA SPECULUM HISTORIALE DE GESTIS REGUM ANGLIÆ. Vol. I., 447-871. Vol. II., 872-1066. Edited by JOHN E. B. MAYOR, M.A., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1863-1869.

Richard of Cirencester's history is in four books, and gives many charters in favour of Westminster Abbey, and a very full account of the lives and miracles of the saints especially of Edward the Confessor, whose reign occupies the fourth book. A treatise on the Coronation, by William of Sudbury, a monk of Westminster, fills book ii. c. 8.

31. YEAR BOOKS OF THE REIGNS OF EDWARD THE FIRST AND EDWARD THE THIRD. Years 20-21, 21-22, 30-31, 32-33, and 33-35 Edw. I; and 11-12 Edw. Vol. I.:—ITINERARIUM PEREGRINORUM ET GESTA REGIS RICARDI.

Vol. II.:—EPISTOLÆ CANTUARIENSES; the Letters of the Prior and Convent of Christ Church, Canterbury; 1187 to 1199.

Edited by the Rev. WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Vicar of Navestock, Essex, and Lambeth Librarian. 1864-1865.

The authorship of the Chronicle in Vol. I., hitherto ascribed to Geoffrey Vinesauf, is now more correctly ascribed to Richard, Canon of the Holy Trinity of London.

The letters in Vol. II., written between 1187 and 1199, had their origin in a dispute which arose from the attempts of Baldwin and Hubert, archbishops of Canterbury, to found a college of secular canons, a project which gave great umbrage to the monks of Canterbury.

39. RECUEIL DES CRONIQUES ET ANCHIENNES ISTORIES DE LA GRANT BRETAIGNE A PRESENT NOMME ENGLETERRE, par JEHAN DE WAURIN. Vol. I., Albina to 688. Vol. II., 1399-1422. (Translations of the preceding Vols. I., II., and III.) Edited and translated by Sir WILLIAM HARDY, F.S.A., and EDWARD L. C. P. HARDY, F.S.A. 1864-1891.

41. POLYCHRONICON RANULPHI HIGDEN, with Trevisa's Translation. Vols. I and II. Edited by CHURCHILL BABINGTON, B.D., Senior Fellow of St John's College, Cambridge. Vols. JOSEPH RAWSON LUMBY, D.D., Norrisian Professor of Divinity, Vicar of St. Edward's, Fellow of St. Catharine's College, and late Fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge. 1865-1886.

This chronicle begins with the Creation, and is brought down to the reign of Edward III. The two English translations, which are printed with the original Latin, afford interesting illustrations of the gradual change of our language, for one was made in the fourteenth century, the other in the fifteenth.

42. LE LIVERE DE REIS DE BRITTANIE E LE LIVERE DE REIS DE ENGLETERE. Edited by the Rev. JOHN GLOVER, M.A., Vicar of Brading, Isle of Wight, formerly Librarian of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1865.

These two treaties are valuable as careful abstracts of previous historians.

43. CHRONICA MONASTERII DE MELSA AB ANNO 1150 USQUE AD ANNUM 1406, Vols. I.-III. Edited by EDWARD AUGUSTUS BOND, Assistant Keeper of Manuscripts, and Egerton Librarian, British Museum. 1866-1868.

45. LIBER MONASTERII DE HYDA: A CHRONICLE AND CHARTULARY OF HYDE ABBEY, WINCHESTER, 455-1023. Edited by EDWARD EDWARDS. 1866.

The "Book of Hyde" is a compilation from much earlier sources, which are usually indicated with considerable care and precision. In many cases, however, the Hyde Chronicler appears to correct, to qualify, or to amplify the statements which, in substance, he adopts.

There is to be found, in the "Book of Hyde," much information relating to the reign of King Alfred which is not known to exist elsewhere. The volume contains some curious specimens of Anglo-Saxon and mediæval English.

46. CHRONICON SCOTORUM. A CHRONICLE OF IRISH AFFAIRS, from the earliest times to 1135; and SUPPLEMENT, containing the events from 1141 to 1150. Edited, with Translation, by WILLIAM MAUNSELL HENNESSY, M.R.I.A. 1866.

47. THE CHRONICLE OF PIERRE DE LANGTOFT, IN FRENCH VERSE, FROM THE EARLIEST PERIOD TO THE DEATH OF EDWARD I. Vols. I. and II. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, M.A. 1866-1868.

It is probable that Pierre de Langtoft was a canon of Bridlington, in Yorkshire, and lived in the reign of Edward I., and during a portion of the reign of Edward II. This chronicle is divided into three parts; in the first, is an abridgment of Geoffrey of Monmouth's "Historia Britonum"; in the second, a history of the Anglo-Saxon and Norman kings, to the death of Henry III.; in the third, a history of the reign of Edward I. The language is a specimen of the French of Yorkshire.

50. MUNIMENTA ACADEMICA, OR, DOCUMENTS ILLUSTRATIVE OF ACADEMICAL LIFE AND STUDIES AT OXFORD (in Two Parts). Edited by the Rev. HENRY ANSTEY, M.A., Vicar of St. Wendron, Cornwall, and late Vice-Principal of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. 1868.

51. CHRONICA MAGISTRI ROGERI DE HOUEDENE. Vols. I.-IV. Edited by the Rev. WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1868-1871.

The earlier portion, extending from 732 to 1148, appears to be a copy of a compilation made in Northumbria about 1161, to which Hoveden added little. From 1148 to 1169—a very valuable portion of this work—the matter is derived from another source, to which Hoveden appears to have supplied little. From 1170 to 1192 is the portion which corresponds to some extent with the Chronicle known under the name of Benedict of Peterborough (see No. 49). From 1192 to 1201 may be said to be wholly Hoveden's work.

WORKS PUBLISHED IN PHOTOZINCOGRAPHY.

DOMESDAY BOOK, or the GREAT SURVEY OF ENGLAND OF WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR, 1086; fac-simile of the Part relating to each county, separately (with a few exceptions of double counties). Photozincographed at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton, by Colonel Sir HENRY JAMES, R.E., F.R.S., DIRECTOR-GENERAL of the ORDNANCE SURVEY, under the superintendence of W. BASEVI SANDERS, an Assistant Record Keeper. 35 Parts, imperial quarto and demy quarto (1861-1863), boards.

Domesday Survey is in two parts or volumes. The first, in folio, contains the counties of Bedford, Berks, Bucks, Cambridge, Chester, and Lancaster, Cornwall, Derby, Devon, Dorset, Gloucester, Hants, Hereford, Herts, Huntingdon, Kent, Leicester and Rutland, Lincoln, Middlesex, Northampton, Nottingham, Oxford, Salop, Somerset, Stafford, Surrey, Sussex, Warwick, Wilts, Worcester, and York. The second volume, in quarto, contains the counties of Essex, Norfolk, and Suffolk.

Domesday Book was printed verbatim et literatim during the last century, in consequence of an address of the House of Lords to King George III. in 1767. It was not, however, commenced until 1773, and was completed early in 1783. In 1860, Her Majesty's Government, with the concurrence of the Master of the Rolls, determined to apply the art of photozincography in the production of a fac-simile of Domesday Book.

This work forms a comprehensive Palæographic Series for Ireland. It furnishes characteristic specimens of the documents which have come down from each of the classes which, in past ages, formed principal elements in the population of Ireland, or exercised an influence in her affairs. With these reproductions are combined fac-similes of writings connected with eminent personages or transactions of importance in the annals of the country to the early part of the eighteenth century.

The specimens have been reproduced as nearly as possible in accordance with the originals, in dimensions, colouring, and general appearance. Characteristic examples of styles of writing and caligraphic ornamentation are, as far as practicable, associated with subjects of historic and linguistic interest. Descriptions of the various manuscripts are given by the Editor in the Introduction. The contents of the specimens are fully elucidated and printed in the original languages, opposite to the Fac-similes—line for line—without contractions—thus facilitating reference and aiding effectively those interested in palæographic studies.

In the work are also printed in full, for the first time, many original and important historical documents.

Part I. commences with the earliest Irish MSS. extant.

Part II.: From the Twelfth Century to A.D. 1299.

Part III.: From A.D. 1300 to end of reign of Henry VIII.

Part IV. 1: From reign of Edward VI. to that of James I.

In part IV. 2 the work is carried down to the early part of the eighteenth century, with Index to the entire publication.
